Passionfruit

Letter of Recommendation

To whom it may concern,

This is to confirm that Suveer Saigal, a student at The Shri Ram School, Moulsari, successfully completed a four-week internship with our organization. At Passionfruit, our work focuses on helping brands improve their organic discoverability across both traditional search and emerging AI platforms through SEO, GEO, and AEO. This requires continuous research into customer behaviour, market positioning, competitive landscapes, creator-led businesses, and the evolving ways people discover information online.

Throughout his internship, Suveer was a thoughtful, curious, and capable member of the team, and he made a genuine contribution to the work he was involved in.

During his internship, Suveer was given well-rounded experience across several areas of our work, including research, content planning, competitor study, and the review of performance data. He worked through large volumes of customer and market information, supported comparisons across different businesses, contributed to several detailed reviews, and prepared a number of research summaries that supported our internal discussions on client strategy. His work reflected a good balance of careful analysis and practical business sense, which is uncommon for someone still in school. His supervisors consistently noted the way he approached information. Rather than treating figures and reports as ends in themselves, he sought to understand how a business performs, and he showed a natural interest in the decisions behind customer behavior and strategic decisions that influenced business outcomes. He also collaborated well with others, working alongside a fellow intern on a practical proposal that the team was pleased to consider.

Suveer showed a strong willingness to learn throughout his placement. When faced with something unfamiliar, he asked questions, sought feedback, and treated guidance as an opportunity to improve. He brought energy and curiosity to the team and contributed positively to the working environment during his time with us.

We appreciate Suveer's commitment, professionalism, and positive attitude during his time at Passionfruit. We are confident that the same curiosity, maturity, and disciplined approach to learning that he demonstrated during his internship will serve him well in his future academic and professional pursuits.

Sincerely,

Muskan Sharma
